OVERVIEW OF THE DIRECTORY OF RESOURCES

The National Hispanic and Latino Addiction Technology Transfer Center (NHL ATTC) and The National Hispanic and Latino Prevention Technology Transfer Center (NHL PTTC), both housed at The National Latino Behavioral Health Association (NLBHA), are pleased to deliver an incredible toolkit with several resources around the El Día De Los Muertos/ Day of the Dead, Grief and Loss.

Our goal with this toolkit is to not only normalize grief and offer options for healthy coping mechanisms, but also to help our communities to find support and healthy outlets to express their pain and grief.

This is an extensive directory of resources that our team carefully prepared for you. You will find articles, webinars, fact sheets, support groups, books recommendations, videos, movies, and resources to approach the topic with children.

Some of the resources are available in all three languages (English, Spanish and Portuguese).

We hope these resources are useful for you and for your healing process.

Please share it with your family, friends, and colleagues. Stay safe, healthy, and remember we are all in this together.

Thank you.
¡Gracias!
Obrigado.

Support Groups

ENG: Grieving.com

One of the first and biggest online support groups, Grieving.com has a variety of forums so participants can connect and share experiences. Founded in 1997, Grieving.com is one of the oldest grief support communities on the internet, helping a quarter of a million people in more than 100 countries. Grieving.com is a judgment-free zone that focuses on helping people who have gone through loss connect with others who understand what they're going through. They provide a variety of forums, ranging from generic loss discussions to more specific issues, such as the loss of a parent.

ENG: Grief in Common

With Grief in Common, members can connect with others privately with a live chat. Grief in Common aims to provide people with a place to feel validated and understood as they talk about their experience with loss. The site can match people with individuals who have experienced similar losses, so individuals can connect with them privately.

ENG: Grief Anonymous

Grief Anonymous offers 24/7 online support that caters to members for all types of grief. Grief Anonymous provides access to Facebook groups that allow users to connect with other people and talk about their experiences day or night. Their original group, the Grief Anonymous Family Group, has almost 9,000 members and allows people to talk about all types of grief.

ENG: Online Grief Support

Online Grief Support lets you easily connect with others who have experienced specific types of grief through online forums. Online Grief Support offers a variety of online forums. Users can interact in the general discussion group, or they can join communities for people who have experienced specific types of grief, such as the loss of a spouse, someone to cancer, a parent, or sudden loss. The website offers many helpful links and resources, as well. There is information on obtaining grief counseling, an online bookstore with recommended reading, and an online “healing center” with helpful product suggestions. Joining a grief-specific group may be helpful to individuals who want to connect with people who understand their experiences best.

ENG: Grief Healing

Grief Healing provides online support in a safe space—discussion groups are closely moderated to ensure quality, safety, and security for all participants. With a variety of grief-related articles and resources, Grief Healing is a great resource that provides access to discussion groups. Their communities offer opportunities for users to share stories and connect with others who understand loss. The site reports that their discussion groups are closely monitored and moderated by the owner to ensure quality, safety, and security for all participants. Every post is read by the site's monitors; two nationally certified grief counselors, according to founder Marty Tousley, who is also a grief counselor.

ENG: Ourhouse Grief Support Center
